WELCOME

At Jajumbora we share the journey of pregnancy and parenthood with you and your family, supporting your bubba as they grow and celebrating this wonderful experience.

We're here to help and support you with your health and wellbeing needs at every stage. Our experienced midwives will work with you, to provide care that is continuous through a respectful and trusting relationship.

OUR STAFF

We have a team of midwives and a midwifery unit manager. Our midwives have a strong background in maternity care and are passionate about providing one-on-one antenatal care for women and their families.

Once you are referred to Jajumbora, you will meet with a midwife and the rest of the team. You will get to know your midwife by name and the same midwife will support you throughout your pregnancy and the birth of your child.

OUR SERVICES

We provide midwife support to Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander women from pregnancy through to parenthood.

At Jajumbora we offer:

- a named midwife for your antenatal care and birthing
- midwife services and birthing plans
- home visits when needed
- pregnancy advice and support
- breastfeeding support.

Our staff and midwives at the hub can also connect you to other services in Logan who will continue to help you as your baby grows.

WHERE ARE MY APPOINTMENTS?

We can meet you at Jajumbora (located at Waterford West), one of our medical clinics or we can come out to your house.

DO I NEED A REFERRAL?

Yes. Ask your GP to refer you to Logan Hospital (att: Jajumbora Midwives).

ARE THERE FEES?

No, the service is free.
