WE'RE HERE TO HELP...

We provide a range of health care services for our community. Our clinic is the first point of contact when you come to see us. You will be assessed by our GPs and clinical staff and then any relevant referrals made.

We offer a range of services

Not just a general practice we have range of medical specialists and allied health professionals who regularly work from our clinic including:

- physio
- eye and ear checks
- skin and foot specialists
- heart checks
- counselling
- dietician
- aged care specialist
- occupational therapy
- exercise management.

Check in with our receptionists if you want to see one of our regular visiting services.

Dental

We also provide onsite accessible and affordable dental care for ATSICHS clients only. Access to these services is dependent on completion of an annual 715 Health Check at any Aboriginal Medical Service. You will need to contact the dental clinic directly for all dental appointments.

Mums and Bubs

Health care and support for mothers and babies and young children as well as antenatal care, postnatal care, immunisations and full women's health checks.

Social Health

Our social health team can help you with counselling including drug and alcohol, social and emotional wellbeing counselling, mentoring, men's and women's groups and mental health advocacy.

School health checks

Our clinic has a number of Aboriginal Health Workers and a Community Liaison Officer. We are happy to come out to schools in our local area.

Do you have a chronic illness?

We have care coordinators who can support you and help you manage all your health needs.

OUR STAFF

We have a dedicated and friendly team of doctors, a practice manager, nurses, Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander health workers, care coordinators, community liaison officers, outreach workers, receptionists and transport drivers and a wide range of specialised health professionals.
